

SOJAC Then ...

The South Jersey Aero Club originated in 1963 with forty eight members and one airplane, a 1946 Aeronca 7AC. In the over 57 years since its formation, the Club has moved its home airport from Flying W to Kettle Run and currently to Cross Keys Airport in Williamstown, NJ. During this time, the number of airplanes and members has varied.

SOJAC Now ...

Currently, SOJAC membership ranges between thirteen and eighteen Pilots and Associates with access to a Piper Archer II.

What Is SOJAC ? ...

The South Jersey Aero Club is a fraternal organization of aviation enthusiasts, both pilots and non-pilots (associates). Pilot members have full voting rights, may schedule the aircraft, and may serve as Club officers. Associates generally are those who have not yet earned their private licenses, those who have decided to suspend flying, or those who just enjoy the camaraderie of an organization dedicated to the fun of flight. Associates are also given “preferred status” if and when they decide to move up to full pilot membership.

Regular meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology, the Club’s hangar at Cross Keys Airport, and other designated meeting places as required.

Twice each year (spring and fall) all club members participate in a “wash & wax” party at Cross Keys Airport to keep the aircraft looking sharp.

Becoming a SOJAC Member

Pilot-level membership requires: (1) completion of an application form with a one-time initiation fee, (2) successful completion of a check ride with a Club instructor and, (3) approval of the Club’s voting members. Those interested in becoming a member, either pilot or associate, are encouraged to attend Club meetings or use the contact information provided elsewhere in this pamphlet.

Aircraft Access

SOJAC uses both internet and telephone-based aircraft scheduling systems. Members can reserve the plane for both short and long trips.
